The 2017-2018 School Year is off and running! We have a number of exciting events happening this year, so stay tuned for upcoming announcements!

October is National Dyslexia Awareness Month. Dyslexia affects an estimated 8.5 million school children and one in six Americans in some form. We're so very fortunate that we have a place where dyslexic students are welcomed and given the opportunity for a brighter future!

Panel of Professionals - Dyslexia & ADHD

Join us on October 26th, 2017 for a question-answer session with local professionals to help families to make well-informed decisions for their dyslexic or ADHD student.

6:00 - Tour of School
6:30 - Panel starts

Light refreshments and child care will be provided.

Ms. Maura's Class October News

Can you believe that September is over!! It has been an interesting month. We had two birthdays in our classroom this month Austin and Jacob both celebrated their big days with their friends. We all enjoyed the pizza, cupcakes and ice cream cake. We all had an unexpected week off with some of us not losing power to others not having power for 5 days. The power outage brought back old fashioned board games and reading with flashlights. These are just a few of the stories your students shared with the class. We are all glad the power is back and we are back at school.

In our classroom this month we will be doing our biographies, so ask your children who they are studying. In class we are also reading a book together "Bud, Not Buddy." This is a book about the Great Depression. If you have any family stories you can share with your students about this time in history please share. On October 11th our class will be heading out on our first field trip to the Bodies Exhibit. The students are working hard studying their vocabulary words in Science.
